Quick Reference Guide: NOTE if you are unsure if you meet the criteria to be established as a “parent,” please seek legal advice before submitting this complaint with the court.

“Presumed parent” A person is presumed to be a parent of a child if:

- the person and the person who gave birth to the child are married to each other and the child is born during the marriage; or
- the person and the person who gave birth to the child were married to each other and the child is born not later than 300 days after the marriage is terminated by death, annulment, declaration of invalidity, divorce, or dissolution; or
- the person and the person who gave birth to the child married each other after the birth of the child and the person at any time asserted parentage of the child and the person agreed to be and is named as a parent of the child on the birth certificate of the child; or
- the person resided in the same household with the child for the first two years of the life of the child, including periods of temporary absence, and the person and another parent of the child openly held out the child as the person’s child.

“Acknowledged parent” means a person who has given birth to the child(ren) or who is the alleged genetic parent that has signed a Voluntary Acknowledgement of Parentage Form.

“Adjudicated parent” means a person who has been adjudicated by a court of competent jurisdiction to be a parent of the child(ren).

“De Facto Parent” is a person who has resided with the child(ren) as a regular member of the household for a significant period of time and meets other legal criteria.

“Intended parent” is a person, whether married or unmarried, who intends to be legally bound as a parent of the child(ren) resulting from assisted reproduction or a gestational carrier agreement.
